No. 551M.—The 26th February 1923.—In pursuance of section 49, sub-section (1) of the Calcutta Improvement Act, 1911 (Bengal Act V of 1911), it is hereby notified for general information that in exercise of the powers conferred by section 48 of that Act, the Government of Bengal (Ministry of Local Self-Government) are pleased to sanction the street scheme known as scheme No. XVIII A (Chatawala Gullee to Eden Hospital Road) in Ward No. VIII of the Calcutta Municipality which has been submitted to them by the Board of Trustees for the Improvement of Calcutta under section 47 of the said Act.

2. A description of the scheme is given as follows:—

The scheme is part of the proposed public street No. V (Bowbazar Parallel) and is a continuation of scheme No. XVII already sanctioned by Government. It provides for the construction of a 40 feet wide road from Chatawala Gullee to Eden Hospital Road and widening of Phear Lane to 35 feet and Hide Lane to 40 feet and also other cross roads. It also provides for the construction of a portion of the main 60 feet wide road between Central Avenue and Hide Lane.

The scheme provides for the acquisition of the whole of the land within the blue verge on the plan of the scheme. The land will be relaid in building plots as shown on the plan.

It is proposed to reserve the large building plots formed out of Nos. 23 and 15, Chatawala Gullee, for rehousing the Chinese and others who are displaced by these operations, if found necessary. If any plot is formed out of land in one ownership the owner will have the option of exempting it from acquisition under section 78.

Formula for calculating heating surface.

The heating surface for these purposes may be defined generally as the total surface of all plates and tubes exposed to heat on one side and in contact with water on the other, measured on the water side. For Lancashire and Cornish boilers the total heating surface shall include the wetted surface of the furnaces between the end plates and of cross tubes, where fitted, and the part of the external shell below the side flue covers. In estimating the areas, furnaces may be considered as plain cylinders, the area of their wetted surface is to be taken as their mean external circumference $\times$ the length of the boiler between end plates. For the shell the width of that part of the circumference below the flue covers is to be taken as $= 2D$, and this width $\times$ the length between end plates is to be taken as the area of shell heating surface. The part of the surface of the back end plate exposed to heat is to be neglected.

The formula for the total heating surface of a Lancashire boiler having plain furnaces without cross-tubes is therefore H. S. in square feet $= 2L (3.14d + D)$. L is the length of the boiler between end plates, D is the mean external diameter of the largest belt of shell, d is the diameter of furnace flue all sizes in feet.

For steam and water drums of water tube boilers the heating surface of the drum may be taken as half the external mean circumference into the clear length of drum between the outer brick walls or centres of cross boxes as the case may be. The surface of the tubes may be taken as the external furnace of the inclined tubes between tube plate and headers. The heating surface of the headers is to be neglected.

For Marine type boilers the heating surface shall include the wetted surface of the furnaces between the tube plates (considered in the same way as for Lancashire boilers), the wetted surface of the combustion chambers (less the area of the tube holes) and the wetted surface of the tubes between tube plates. The parts of the front tube plate exposed to heat are to be neglected.

For Locomotive type boilers the heating surface shall include the wetted surface of the fire-box above the foundation ring (less the area of the tubes and the fire-hole and ring) and the wetted surface of the tubes between tube plates. The smoke box tube plate is to be neglected.

For vertical boilers of ordinary type the heating surface shall include the wetted surface of the fire-box above the foundation ring (less the area of fire-hole and ring and tube holes, if any) and the wetted surface of any cross or other tubes and uptake below the lowest water level shown in the gauge-glass. For any other heating surface not provided for in the foregoing instructions the same general procedure shall be observed. No deduction should be made for stays, etc., in calculating the heating surface.

4. Delete rule XXII of the said rules.

5. In column 2 of Division II of Form No. 1 for the word "horse-power" substitute the words "Heating Surface."

6. In Division IV of Form No. 1 for the existing scale of fees substitute the following, namely:—

	Rs.
Boilers up 100 square feet heating surface	20
" from 101 square feet H. S. to 300 square feet H. S.	25
" " 301 " " " 500 " " "	30
" " 501 " " " 700 " " "	35
" " 701 " " " 900 " " "	40
" " 901 " " " 1,100 " " "	45
" above 1,100 " " " " " "	50

Formula for calculating heating surface.

(As per rule XXI.)

7. In column 5 of Form No. 2 for the word "horse-power" substitute the words "Heating Surface."
